FRIDAY, JUNE 16, 2017

THE NEWS-SENTINEL

Your Town. Your Voice.

Focus: Fort Wayne, Indiana

www.news-sentinel.com

New life
Pathfinder is displaying its first rehabsed house. LOCAL PAGE, 1

By The Associated Press

A Trump administration official says the department will soon send about 4,000 additional American forces to Afghanistan, hoping to break the stalemate in a war that has never passed a third U.S. commander in chief.

The deployment will be the largest of American manpower under Donald Trump's young presidency.

The official says the decision by Defense Secretary Jim Mattis could be announced as early as next week. It follows Trump's move to give Mattis the authority to set troop levels.

For home delivery, call 1-260-461-8354 or go to www.news-sentinel.com

For home delivery, call 1-260-461-8354 or go to www.news-sentinel.com

FRIDAY, JUNE 16, 2017

THE NEWS-SENTINEL

Your Town. Your Voice.

Focus: Fort Wayne, Indiana

www.news-sentinel.com

New life
Pathfinder is displaying its first rehabsed house. LOCAL PAGE, 1

By The Associated Press

A Trump administration official says the department will soon send about 4,000 additional American forces to Afghanistan, hoping to break the stalemate in a war that has never passed a third U.S. commander in chief.

The deployment will be the largest of American manpower under Donald Trump's young presidency.

The official says the decision by Defense Secretary Jim Mattis could be announced as early as next week. It follows Trump's move to give Mattis the authority to set troop levels.

For home delivery, call 1-260-461-8354 or go to www.news-sentinel.com

For home delivery, call 1-260-461-8354 or go to www.news-sentinel.com

“Tonight we will go to the game, play our hardest, but we will all be Team Scalise.”

— HOUSE DEMOCRATIC LEADER NANCY PELOSI

About 4,000 more US troops to go to Afghanistan

Deployment to help break stalemate in war.

By LOLITA C. BALDOR

WASHINGTON — A Trump administration official says the Pentagon will send almost 4,000 additional American forces to Afghanistan, hoping to break a stalemate in a war that has never passed a third U.S. commander in chief.

The deployment will be the largest of American manpower under Donald Trump’s young presidency.

The official says the decision by Defense Secretary Jim Mattis could be announced as early as next week. It follows Trump’s move to give Mattis the authority to set troop levels.

For home delivery, call 1-260-461-8354 or go to www.news-sentinel.com

For home delivery, call 1-260-461-8354 or go to www.news-sentinel.com

“Tonight we will go to the game, play our hardest, but we will all be Team Scalise.”

— HOUSE DEMOCRATIC LEADER NANCY PELOSI

About 4,000 more US troops to go to Afghanistan

Deployment to help break stalemate in war.

By LOLITA C. BALDOR

WASHINGTON — A Trump administration official says the Pentagon will send almost 4,000 additional American forces to Afghanistan, hoping to break a stalemate in a war that has never passed a third U.S. commander in chief.

The deployment will be the largest of American manpower under Donald Trump’s young presidency.

The official says the decision by Defense Secretary Jim Mattis could be announced as early as next week. It follows Trump’s move to give Mattis the authority to set troop levels.

For home delivery, call 1-260-461-8354 or go to www.news-sentinel.com

For home delivery, call 1-260-461-8354 or go to www.news-sentinel.com

“Tonight we will go to the game, play our hardest, but we will all be Team Scalise.”

— HOUSE DEMOCRATIC LEADER NANCY PELOSI

About 4,000 more US troops to go to Afghanistan

Deployment to help break stalemate in war.

By LOLITA C. BALDOR

WASHINGTON — A Trump administration official says the Pentagon will send almost 4,000 additional American forces to Afghanistan, hoping to break a stalemate in a war that has never passed a third U.S. commander in chief.

The deployment will be the largest of American manpower under Donald Trump’s young presidency.

The official says the decision by Defense Secretary Jim Mattis could be announced as early as next week. It follows Trump’s move to give Mattis the authority to set troop levels.

For home delivery, call 1-260-461-8354 or go to www.news-sentinel.com

For home delivery, call 1-260-461-8354 or go to www.news-sentinel.com

“Tonight we will go to the game, play our hardest, but we will all be Team Scalise.”

— HOUSE DEMOCRATIC LEADER NANCY PELOSI

About 4,000 more US troops to go to Afghanistan

Deployment to help break stalemate in war.

By LOLITA C. BALDOR

WASHINGTON — A Trump administration official says the Pentagon will send almost 4,000 additional American forces to Afghanistan, hoping to break a stalemate in a war that has never passed a third U.S. commander in chief.

The deployment will be the largest of American manpower under Donald Trump’s young presidency.

The official says the decision by Defense Secretary Jim Mattis could be announced as early as next week. It follows Trump’s move to give Mattis the authority to set troop levels.